FROM AUSTIN, WITH STYLE

Ever since I was a teenager, my guilty pleasure has been reading glossy fashion magazines. There's nothing better than sinking into an easy chair on the weekend and slowly perusing the pages. It was especially fun as I flipped through the March edition of Elle and discovered six young Austin women extolled for their sense of style. I actually know one of them — Kristen Chin, principal at Pom Public Relations. In the magazine, she's sporting a mid-calf black dress, black leather vest and gold ankle boots. Stylish stuff. So who else posed for the camera flashing a sophisticated stance? Taylor Catherine Brandeger, marketing director of the Mohawk music venue; Masha Poloskova, owner of Garment Modern + Vintage; Alex Gehring, a model and musician with Ringo Deathstarr; stylist Mallory Hublein; and poet Bette O'Callaghan.
